

America's 11 top Communist leaders were convicted in New York yesterday — ending a federal court trial which had run nine months.

There will be those who say this was a "political case" — a "persecution of liberals by reactionaries" — but the Moscow line language over the Moscow trial every day, but there'll be less of it in the United States now on for Americans have suddenly discovered there's a hard, fast line between liberty and treason.

The U. S. Communist leaders were convicted of a conspiracy to teach others that the American government ought to be overthrown by force.

You may say anything in free America — except that.

All things are permissible in a republic governed by majority vote — except a proposal to destroy majority rule and substitute force for ballots.

Communists like to talk about "peace," and "capitalist warmongers" — but they are the real war-mongers, beginning with a campaign of force at home which breaks down peaceful balloting and stable government.

Furthermore, the great indictment against Communism in America is that it's not genuine peace, but rather a rather the declared agent of a foreign nation, drawing both men and money from Russia.

It is one thing to guarantee civil rights to our own people; but it is something else to attempt to use traditional American freedom as a cloak for foreign agents and traitors who aim to produce a crisis and then betray our country into the hands of an enemy.

This is no pipe-dream. A federal jury and a very learned federal judge, Harold R. Medina — heard the testimony for and against the 11 prisoners. Two of the 11 were negroes.

So was the foreman of the jury that sent them to jail.

Ex-Hungarian Official Is Executed

Budapest, Oct. 15 —(AP)— Laszlo Rajk, 40, Hungary's former No. 2 Communist, died on the gallows today for treason.

A foreign ministry spokesman, announcing Rajk's death, said two other men sentenced with the former foreign minister also were hanged. The three had confessed to treason before a five-judge people's court that they plotted to overthrow Hungary's Communist regime with American help and substitute for it a government which would acknowledge under to Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

The trial ended Sept. 24. The death sentences were confirmed yesterday by the court of appeals. The same court last July confirmed the sentence of life in prison for the three men, and for Cardinal Mindszenty on treason charges.

The Rajk trial was followed by an immediate upheaval against Yugoslavia, among Hungary's communist neighbors, Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Those hanged with Rajk, the foreign ministry spokesman said, were Dr. Tibor Szonyi, 46, director of the cadre system of the Hungarian Communist party, and as such the supervisor of the party's rank-and-file; and Andras Szallasi, 46, a highly reliable source said the executions were carried out at 6 a. m. today.

The appeals court yesterday also confirmed a prison term for Rajk's co-defendants, Lazar Brankov, 37, a Yugoslav who had been counselor of the Yugoslav legation in Budapest, and Pel Justus, 44, former vice president of the Hungarian radio, got life sentences. Milan Grgurevich, a Hungarian citizen of Serbian origin, got nine years. The government said he was a spy for Yugoslavia.

Hope's 7-0 Win Over Texarkana Is Well-Earned

In a bruising contest last night at Texarkana the Hope Bobcats downed the Porkers 7 to 0 for their first conference win of the season. It was the fifth win for Hope against a single opponent.

The Hope football team was playing the middle of the game, Texarkana's defense within sight of paydirt only twice during the contest and the closest drive was checked on the Hope 19.

Hope threatened time and again throughout the contest but it wasn't until the third period that they were able to go across. When the game ended the Bobcats were again deep in Texarkana territory.

The Bobcats traveled 88 yards for the game's lone tally. Taking over a punt on their own 22 Ed Selby, who was the outstanding back on the field, touched down the ball to Hope's 23. Again the Bobcat line rose up to halt the drive. When the game ended the Bobcats were headed for the Texarkana goal line in a drive that saw the Hope boys literally tearing the Porker line apart.

Hundreds of Hope fans were on hand and well-pleased with the Bobcats who clicked with precision. It was the stellar play of the Hope linemen, Bensley, Keith, Brunner, Johnson, Barrentine, Watson, Tabor, Sutton — that told the story.

For Texarkana Ramsey was the standout in the line while Yaden's passing many of them desperate, was a constant threat. Gus Kennedy, the Porker who was hurt and rushed to a hospital, only received a bruised leg and will be able to play next week, it was learned.

The Bobcats stuck mainly to the ground and rolled up 13 first downs for 9 for Texarkana. Hope gained 173 yards rushing, completed one of three passes for 5 yards. Texarkana netted 125 rushing, made good 15 passes for 16 yards. Hope intercepted one pass. A total of 15 yards were dealt out in penalties. Hope drew 2 for 10 and Texarkana 1 for 5.

Surprise struck at the top of the Big Six, the state's highest prep classification. Little Rock's Tigers, defending champions and favorites by some 40 points, had to come from behind twice to edge a win over Smith, 14-13.

And El Dorado, rated as one of the state's top teams, was upended, 31-26, by Smackover, state runner-up last year in Class AA.

Ellyheville, the 1948 Double-A champion, won a return trip to a postseason playoffs by beating Jonesboro, 37-12, for the District Three crown.

Salvage Workers, Landowners Again Warned of 'Duds' in Restricted Area in SPG

A recent inspection by the Corps of Engineers of the restricted area at the Southwestern Proving Ground revealed scrap salvage activity has been taking place within the restricted (fenced in) area, Capt. A. B. Luter said today.

The restricted (fenced in) section is highly contaminated hazardous area and anyone entering is not only trespassing on Government land but is endangering his life.

Hunters are also warned not to enter the area. All the birds and squirrels in the world are not worth "one man's life," especially if that life happens to be yours.

It has been noted that in several instances owners are cultivating land which was released for surface use only. This is very unsafe practice and might lead to mishap.

Any shells found by the landowners should not be tampered with but should be flagged and reported to the county sheriff or the division engineer, Corps of Engineers, 1114 Commerce street, Dallas 2, Texas.

France Has Protest Strikes

Paris, Oct. 15 —(UP)— Protest strikes were reported from scattered areas of France today as the Communist party sought to wreck Socialist Premier Jules Moch's efforts to form a cabinet.

The work stoppages, all staged as protests against Moch's confirmation by the national assembly yesterday, were reported from Montpellier, Caen, Nice and Bordeaux. All were short-lived.

The Communist party newspaper, L'Humanite used both headlines to advocate unity of action to cause the badly-elected Jules Moch, confirmed thanks to fraud, to fail in his plans.

The Communist press strike campaign followed an open pledge by party leaders to do everything in their power to wreck Moch's plans.

Moch found difficulty in forming a new cabinet among the squabbling parties which have run France's government for the past three years and observed predicted he would not finish until tomorrow.

Lewis' Plan Treated Cold by Rivals

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 15 —(AP)— Cool silence from rival union leaders today hung over John L. Lewis' dramatic bid for a united labor front in the coal and steel strikes. But a few low mutterings of dissent could be heard just offstage.

AFL President William Green had no comment on the United Mine Workers' chief's suggestion yesterday that nine of his international unions join with the miners to provide a proposed $2,500,000 a week for Philip Murray's striking steelworkers.

Murray, at Pittsburgh, was just as silent. But in Washington, an official at AFL headquarters had this to say:

"If the steelworkers need any help, they are certainly capable of asking for it themselves."

Miners voiced their opposition to the plan. The St. Michael, Pa., UMW local 3648 — 500 members — wired its chief:

"We believe a kitty should be raised to alleviate poverty in the mining fields first. The policy for advocating bread for every other Johnny except Johnny Miner can have no other effect than the demoralize the digger x x x"

If you visit the coal regions the economic conditions would be self evident that charity begins at home."

Observers also noted that the steel strike was putting a crimp in Lewis' bargaining with the coal planters. As long as steel plants were idled, coal into their huge furnaces, it left that much more for the more moderate users.

And the higher the coal stockpile stood, the longer the coal operators could hold out against the miners' demands.

George H. Love, chief spokesman for the northern and western mine owners who have been negotiating at this resort for four months, said the operators would accept government seizure rather than "cut our own throats" by yielding to Lewis' demands.

Lewis was wearing them down somewhat, however. There were recurring reports that some Indiana and Illinois operators were ready to sign a contract with the miners.

Huge Sellout Audience Hears Miss Truman

Atlanta, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A sellout crowd of 5,500 attended the opening of the Atlanta concert season last night by Margaret Truman. She sang about everybody where anybody in the top-flight social bracket of this old time confederate stronghold were on hand to greet the President's daughter with warm applause.

It was Miss Truman's first appearance this year as a lyric soprano.

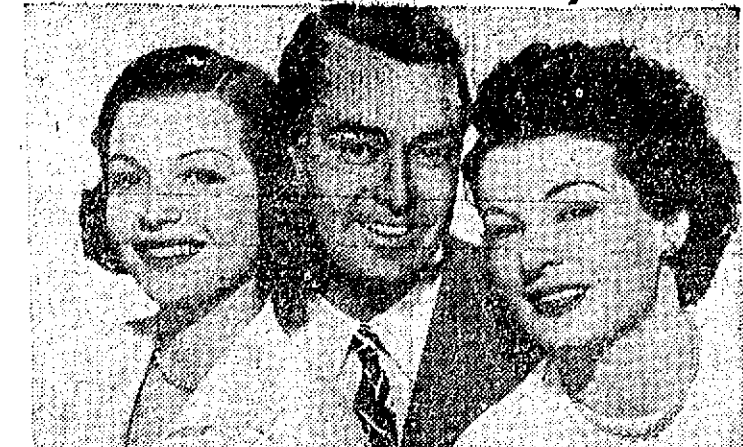

Unfortunately for Miss Truman, the night was warm and sticky and the audience sought relief from the oppressive heat in the non-airconditioned auditorium by fanning vigorously with programs.

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

The story: Jenny's marriage because Tod cannot forget Lid Conover, who lured him before his marriage. Even the arrival of twin sons fail to bring the Duncans together. One bright spot for Jenny is Tod's old friend Rick Morris, but Tod suspects Rick is in love with Jenny. Liz, meanwhile, has divorced Jim Courtney, with whom she eloped, and is setting her net for Tod again. She invites Tod to a cocktail party on the same day Jenny meets Rick on the street and invites him to her basement apartment for dinner. Tod comes home late, very unsteady.

Tod had been drinking quite a lot. He was very gay and effusive, especially when he saw Rick. He kept saying, "I had to work late. That's my story and I'm going to stick to it. And if Jenny doesn't like it, you can cheer her up."

Between the two of them they got him to bed, and as he drowsed off he was still muttering about Rick being the one to "love her and take care of her."

"I don't know what to say, Rick," Jenny whispered as they cleared off the table later.

Rick looked at her gravely. "You don't have to say anything. I don't think Tod's happy."

The words tumbled over one another in her eagerness to make excuses. "He doesn't care too much for his job, and we're in debt, his mother's sick, and—well, things are piling up. But I'm especially thinking you'll be straightened out."

"Of course, Jenny."

Jenny's eyes fell away from his. She twisted a paper napkin into a ball in her palm. "I'm especially ashamed of Tod for saying the sayings he did. He'll be ashamed too, tomorrow."

There was a queer look on Rick's face as he stared at her for an instant, as though he were about to say something.

He didn't speak, but Jenny knew all at once that Tod was right. And Nina had been right. Jenny herself had been incredibly stupid and blind. Rick was in love with her!

Tod awakened the next morning bewildered and contrite. She was pouring his coffee when he came out all shayed and ready to go to the office. "I hope I wasn't too late. You weren't?" She tried to smile.

"I remember saying something about —"

"Forget it," Jenny said. "All on it." She poured her own coffee and set the pot back on the stove.

"Party?" She dropped her spoon in her saucer. It made a loud clatter in the stillness.

He sat up, his coffee down and then looked at her. "You'll probably find out sooner or later anyway, so I might as well tell you. I went to a cocktail party at the Conover Agency. It was a special shindig for a client. A big shot."

Invited you too."

"Oh — Liz."

There was a long frigid pause.

"I knew you couldn't go on account of the kids, and —"

"Go on. You knew I didn't have the proper clothes either, that if I went you'd be ashamed of me."

"Jenny, for heaven's sake, don't be so dramatic. If I'd have thought you cared about going we could have got a sitter and managed a new dress."

She stood unmoving listening to the slam of the front door after him, and his footsteps going up the stairs. One of the babies awakened and began to cry. She moved toward the sound automatically.

So Liz had asked Tod to the party, and he had gone without telling her anything about it at all.

Tod phoned at 2 o'clock, his voice strained. "Jenny, I'm darned sorry about last night, and about the things I said this morning too. It's been on my mind all day."

When she didn't say anything because she couldn't, he went on. "Jenny, are you there? Did you hear what I said?"

"Yes."

"And listen, I'll be home early, because I've got great news."

She was still apathetic after Tod had told her his "great news."

"I don't know, you don't seem all excited. Think what it will mean."

"I am thinking."

He took hold of her shoulders and gave her a little shake. "I'm worried about me, about being mixed up with Liz, just because you're being silly. Why, this is the chance of a lifetime!"

"Well I look for a house to buy, a suburban, where the kids can have plenty of fresh air and sun. I'm going into the Conover firm. And we'll buy a car. Gosh, won't it be swell to have a car again! Gee whiz, Jenny, you know when Conover called me over there this afternoon made me this proposition, the first thing I thought was, 'Now Jenny and I and the kids can really begin to live — like other people! No more basements and skipping. I can pay that tuition home and get Ma back into a decent place."

Star Cast in 'Boy With Green Hair'

Offering something, distinctively new to film-goers, RKO Radio's "The Boy With Green Hair" stars Pat O'Brien along with Robert Ryan, Barbara Hale and 11-year-old Dean Stockwell in a stimulating piece of film fare, produced in color by Technicolor starts Sunday at Rialto.

Young Stockwell has the little role as an American war orphan who, unaware his parents were killed in a bomb raid in London, comes to live with "Gramps," an elderly distant relative who used to be a circus performer. Happy and secure for the first time, the youngster gets a severe emotional shock when he accidentally learns of his parents' deaths.

Ever with the idea, he sets out to find his lost parents, and a brilliant green. The phenomenon disturbs everyone in town and arouses the hostility of his schoolmates, but in the picture's most unusual sequence he learns the reason for it: Other war orphans want him to lead a juvenile crusade against war, using his green hair to attract attention.

'Great Gatsby' Opens Sunday at Saenger

Seven top stars head the cast of Paramount's pictorialization of one of the greatest books to come out of the devil-may-care '20s. "The Great Gatsby," written by F. Scott Fitzgerald, Alan Ladd, in the title role, shares stellar billing with Betty Field, MacDonald Carey, Ruth Hussey, Barry Sullivan, Howard Da Silva and Shelley Winters, an impressive array of talent for a film that is reported to be something exceptional in the way of screen fare.

"The Great Gatsby" which arrives Sunday at the Saenger Theatre, is set in that flaming, irresponsible time known as "the jazz age," about which Fitzgerald wrote so revealingly. It tells the tempestuous love story of a man of mystery and violence who crashes Long Island society to win back the girl who lured him for a millionaire playboy. And it re-creates the complete irresponsibility of the law, the reckless money-turn set who recklessly burn life, as though the party would last forever.

The role of Gatsby, the man who acquired a fortune illegally, is an unusual one for Alan Ladd. Without guns or fists, he must show himself to be a man of extraordinary strength and force and yet one who is capable of a romantic attachment that eventually ruins him. Word has it that Ladd gives a magnificent performance as the penniless ex-soldier who pulls himself up by his bootstraps to accumulate the money he thinks can buy him everything, including the girl he still loves. Betty Field plays the girl returning to the scene on Broadway in "Dream Girl" and after an absence of several years also starred in "The Voice of the Turtle" opposite Elliott Nugent. The Great Gatsby.

Macdonald Carey and Ruth Hussey have the second romantic leads. Carey playing Betty's social register cousin who becomes the only friend Ladd makes in the high-stepping crowd into which he buys his way. Barry Sullivan will be seen as Betty's husband whose involvement with garage owner Howard Da Silva's wife brings tragedy crashing down on all their heads. Shelley Winters, who scored tremendously as the trollop waitress in "A Double Life," has the role of his unfaithful wife, whose death precipitates the exciting dramatic events that make "The Great Gatsby" the gripping film it is.

ready has earned the right to represent District four in the playoffs, while Van Buren is the front-runner in District One.

Pine Bluff's Zebras, now standing with Little Rock as the only unbeaten Big Sixers, had a close call at Camden. Trailing 0-7 after the first quarter, the Zebras came back to carve out a 19-14 decision over the Class AA Panthers.

Magnolia and Hope stepped up alongside Smackover as contenders in the heated 7AA scramble. Magnolia repulsed Nashville, 13-0, and Hope downed Texarkana, 7-0.

In the District 6A race, Forrest City beat Marianna, 20-13, and Stuttgart tripped Wynne, 13-6. The winners of the two mild upsets cleared big hurdles toward a playoff berth.

Pocahontas, unblemished Class B team coached by former University of Arkansas star Aubrey Fowler, pulled a good one—sweeping the Third district's top Class A team, Piggott, 13-0.

DOROTHY DIX Divorce

When should a wife give her husband a divorce? There are as many angles to the divorce problem as there are in the human triangle, and there is no one infallible formula for solving them. Each case has its own individual peculiarities that spring from different characteristics and different circumstances.

Not every man who falls out of love with his wife and in love with another woman is a philanderer. Very often it is the result of his having married when he was a boy, and then finding when he was a mature man the woman who answered his need of a man just losing his taste for his wife and then meeting some woman who is his heart's desire.

What should he do under such circumstances when her husband tells her that he wants to care for her and that she should care for another woman and that he is willing to provide for her, but he wants to be free to marry the woman of his mature choice.

Revenge. The wife, of course, takes a sweet and bitter revenge by adopting a dog-in-the-manner policy and since her own marital happiness has been destroyed, prevents her husband from having any either. But revenge is dead as a fruit that turns to ashes between the teeth. Refusing to give her husband a divorce does not restore his love for her. Far better for children to have one parent whom they can respect than two parents they must despise because they are always hurling criminal accusations against each other.

So I think that for the sake of a woman's own self-respect, for the sake of her peace of mind and for the good of the children, she should well when she gives her husband a divorce when she becomes convinced that he has ceased to love her and is honestly and permanently in love with some other woman.

But when the man is a horn philanderer that is something else again. Then whether his wife should give him a divorce or not when he asks for it, depends altogether upon whether she wants to keep him or not and how tired she is of forgiving him. For in the end that sort of man always comes back to Mother after each of his little amatory excursions. He is conditionally incapable of being faithful and no woman on earth could hold him long.

Say "No." Whatever of real affection he has is given to his wife and if he is otherwise agreeable — and the lady-killer is often as fascinating to his wife as he is to other women — then she is wise to say "no" when he thinks he would like to change life partners. He will thank her for saving his life, and go domestic until the next time.

Many women flattered out of their senses by a young girl telling them that she loves them, and swept off their feet by the physical appeal she makes to them, and urged on by the pleas of the siren, try to force their wives to divorce them. But if their wives care anything for them at all they would refuse to do so, because they well know that it would be a waste of time.

They know that young women marry old men for their money. They know that the flare of youth that sometimes comes to a man at middle age does not last and that an old man's infatuation soon passes.

And so whether a wife should give her husband a divorce or not depends not only upon her own feelings in the matter, but whether it will make him happy and is for his good.

Californians Lead Field in Texas Open

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 15 (AP)—Two Californians—Marlene Bauer of Los Angeles and Beverly Hanson of Indianapolis—square off tomorrow in the finals of the Texas women's open golf tournament.

Marlene, 15-year-old tournament medalist, yesterday ousted Betty McKinnon of Mt. Pleasant, Tex., 1 up.

Miss Hanson, formerly of Fargo, N. D., beat Gary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., 4 and 3.

Would Let Board Settle Service Row

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—Two congressional proposals today that President Truman name a civilian board to referee the bitter row over defense plans which has erupted in the armed forces.

Their suggestion closely paralleled that already offered Mr. Truman by the army-navy union, an organization of present and former servicemen. The lawmakers' proposal came on the heels of the President's news conference statement yesterday that he sees no need to change the fundamentals of present defense policy.

Nevertheless, said Reps. Brooks (D-La.) and Price (D-Ill.), there is a disagreement and it should be settled. The lawmakers are members of the house armed services committee.

They brought up the plan after listening for more than a week as the navy fired repeated charges that the fighting power of the fleet was being weakened, while the air force gets funds and favors and builds B-36s to carry out a kind of warfare that the admirals called wrong.

Previously the air force had a lot of congressmen.

Brooks suggested to a reporter that the civilian board be named to find out who is right and settle the trouble that has bedeviled in the armed forces. Price nodded.

They figured impartial civilians could do a better job than the committee. Many members have served in one of the other of the armed forces and on the old house military and navy committees which now are combined.
